Chapter 51: The Rise of the Sung Dynasty

A century passed in the blink of an eye, and in that time, the influence of The Divine Triad spread across countless galaxies, realms, and dimensions. Word of their immense power and the blessings they bestowed upon their worshippers had become a legend, whispered across the fabric of existence. The inhabitants of countless realms and worlds, desperate for the gifts of the Triad, began to worship them fervently.

Rumors, fueled by tales of immortality, unending resources, and protection from all evil and envy, quickly spread like wildfire. Across star systems and civilizations, individuals turned their eyes to the sky, to the thrones of Sung Jin-Woo, Sung Su-Ho, and Ashborn. It was said that those who devoted themselves to the Triad could live for centuries, have children without limit, and enjoy prosperity beyond imagination. The gifts of longevity, fertility, resources, and protection flowed freely to the faithful, and their lives were forever changed.

The divine blessings granted by the Triad became an irresistible allure for countless civilizations and beings. Mortals, once bound by the frailties of their limited lifespans, now flourished. Their families grew, their resources multiplied, and their societies thrived under the watchful protection of the Apostles of God, Dark Apostles, Heavenly Soldiers, and other loyal servants of the Divine Triad. For those who bowed in reverence, life was no longer a struggle; it was a gift.

As the years passed, the Pavilion of the Divine Legacy, now a magnificent temple within the Absolute Realm Universe, became the heart of this newfound prosperity. Here, The Sung Clan—the direct descendants of Sung Jin-Woo and Sung Su-Ho—grew exponentially. Over the span of 100 years, the Sung Clan had expanded into the millions. Every member of the clan, born into a new age of divine grace, enjoyed the benefits of the Divine Triad’s blessings.

The family was bound by a sacred obligation—to marry within the clan, ensuring that the Sung Dynasty continued to grow and prosper. A single family line, now stretching across the Absolute Realm Universe, was a living testament to the will of the Divine Triad. The Sung Dynasty became an unrivaled force, a lineage that transcended the limitations of mere mortals. With their celestial powers and immortal lifespans, they had no rival, and their rule seemed everlasting.

Under the Divine Triad's watchful eyes, Sung Jin-Woo and Sung Su-Ho guided their family, their influence, and their domains. The Sung Clan, now elevated to the rank of humanoid celestial race, was beyond the reach of ordinary concerns. Their immortality ensured that no mortal peril could harm them. Famine, disease, and war were mere memories, as the clan's resources and connections were as boundless as the very multiverse itself.

Sung Jin-Woo and Sung Su-Ho, with their unmatched strength and wisdom, became the ultimate protectors of their family. Every challenge was met with ease, every threat obliterated with a thought. Their powers ensured that the Sung Dynasty was never in danger, and any obstacle that dared stand in their way was swiftly crushed by their divine might. The second clones, now acting as the leaders of Earth’s Sung Clan, ensured that the blessings and protections continued to flow without end, while the original bodies of the Divine Triad continued to enjoy their peaceful existence in the Absolute Realm Universe.

The Sung Dynasty grew into a monumental force. Their influence stretched far and wide, across realms and galaxies, reshaping civilizations, fostering peace, and ensuring prosperity for those who followed the Divine Triad's path. With every passing generation, the clan's power and influence only deepened. Through the blessings bestowed upon them, they created a new era of peace and affluence that spanned the entirety of the Absolute Realm Universe.

As the centuries wore on, the Sung Clan became a legend—immortal and untouchable. The Divine Triad's message of peace and prosperity resonated across the multiverse, as more and more beings sought to join their fold. The world was shaped by their will, and for the Sung Clan, every mortal problem had become a distant memory. Their ascension to the ranks of the humanoid celestial race had ensured that nothing would ever threaten their existence again.

And so, the Sung Dynasty continued to rise, under the watchful eyes of the Divine Triad, who guided them to ever greater heights. In this age of prosperity, there was no limit to what they could accomplish. The multiverse was their domain, and under their protection, the realms would remain in peace for all eternity.
